Organizing the Donation Drive

1. Select a Committee

Donation drives are fun, but they also require a certain amount of planning in order to be successful. Gather a committee that wants to be an integral part of your drive and assign everyone specific tasks. Suggestions of the duties you may want to assign are as follows:

- Chairman of the committee to oversee all details and answer all questions
- Liaison with management
- Coordinator of advertising/promotion
- Photographer
- Outside public relations/media contact
- Coordinator of donation collection boxes
- Chief of storing the donations
- Coordinator of packing and transportation to the non-profit organization

2. Set Goals

Determine the amount of donations you want to raise. Encourage people to help you meet or surpass your goals by putting up flyers and telling them the importance of your drive.

3. Is a Matching Gift Available?

If you are with a company, many are willing and able to make a matching gift of their employee contributions – even when employees are giving food instead of cash. For example, if donating food, see if your company will donate a dollar for every pound of food raised.

Running the Drive

Collect Depending on what your planning committee decides, you can collect your donations at one or more locations.

Engage multiple locations

- If possible/desired, coordinate donation drive events and collections at multiple locations in your area: other schools, stores, banks, restaurants, pharmacies, or grocery stores.
- Use same branded collection bins at all locations to increase recognition & awareness. (for example: totes boxes)
- Encourage everyone to promote the opportunity to colleagues, family and peers in the weeks leading up to event.
- Engage planning committee to create promotional items (signs, bag stuffers, table tents, counter

Make Supply Drive Event a Destination

- Decorate a portion of the office or school to make the drop-off area exciting.
- If desired, work together to engage local media to acknowledge donation drive.
- Incorporate into existing events, especially company, church picnics or school celebrations and clubs.

“Collect” Supplies Online

- Offer a “sponsor a box” online: $30 donation buys a box of food to feed a family of four for a week
- Use an online giving site to create fundraising promotion to “Stuff a Virtual Box”. Utilize social networking sites, like Facebook Causes to raise awareness for the Donation Drive as well.
- Use a relatable number, for example $5 donation purchases 1 notebook, packet of pencils, and 2 erasers.
- Share the fundraising progress with your office or school.
- Leverage social media to excite your network by sharing specific supply needs.
- Send fundraising opportunity to all employees or families of students via email or newsletter (see Sample Newsletter Article below).
- If available, present a matching gift challenge, where the company matches individuals’ (or rival school) donations; all donations go to purchasing supplies.

Sort As donations are received, take time to run through the donations to look for items that cannot be used once delivered to the nonprofit. Consider taking photos of mounds of supplies before they are sorted into the way that the receiving nonprofit has designated. See the timeline in the following pages for ideas to consider as you plan your drive.

Deliver Delivering the supplies, too, is a great way to engage others and generate attention for the success of the donation drive. Ideas may include:

- Inviting donors to assist in the delivery of the donations.
- Wear school/office t-shirts to promote publicity of donations.

Promote There are many ways to generate excitement and visibility throughout the drive. In the tool-kit you will find samples of documents to use when promoting the donation drive.

A few tips to consider:

- Is there a way to film/photo the pile of supplies, supplies being sorted, hundreds of backpacks filling a bus, volunteers and children (get permission to publish)?
- Use social media to reach new audiences: Twitter, Facebook, Nextdoor, Instagram to spread
